Block Leaders Learn Active Shooter Awareness & How to Help Senior Neighbors

It was a huge turnout at the January Block Leader meeting with the Sheriff's Office, West Valley Division. About 90 Block Leaders attended the session, "Active Shooter Awareness: What Neighborhoods Need to Know," presented by Captain Rich Urena and Sergeant Jim Post. Highlights included: how to respond during a critical incident, stay safe and informed, and "Run. Hide. Fight." To view the Active Shooter Awareness video click here.

In addition, Capt. Urena provided the email address to relay crime tips: WVPTips@shf.sccgov.org, and pointed the group to AlertSCC, so Block Leaders can be contacted during emergencies and receive updates. The slide presentation and link to the video shown that evening is found on the Block Leader page.

Participants also heard from Senior Center Case Manager Vivian Silva who offered local resources to assist senior neighbors and techniques on how to ask neighbors if they need help. Resources are available on the Block Leader page.

Entertainment included a variety of volunteer dancers from the Senior Center, which led straight into the usual Thursday Karaoke event.

Cupertino Spelling Bee

On Saturday, January 25, 2020, the City of Cupertino hosted its third annual Spelling Bee for 2nd through 5th graders. Controlling the Uncontrollable

The state of the art for entry spacecraft, such as the Apollo capsule, utilizes Reaction Control System (RCS) thrusters for steering. These thrusters are typically mounted on the backshells of the spacecraft to maneuver them during atmospheric entry. Deployable Entry Vehicles (DEVs), a new class of entry spacecraft, have no backshell. Thus, mounting RCS thrusters is a non-trivial challenge.

Dr. Wendy A. Okolo, an aerospace research engineer at NASA Ames Research Center, will present her efforts on the "Pterodactyl" project to develop the control techniques that will make maneuvering and precision landing of DEVs a reality.
